Summary

I am currently studying Full Stack Web Development Diploma at Code Institute. The syllabus includes HTML5, CSS3, JavaScript, and Python.

I have worked in events, office management roles for various companies, and as an executive assistant for a major food & beverage company for the past 14 years. I have been considering a career change for quite a while but there was never a good time. I have always had a knack for technology and web development seemed like the most challenging yet rewarding career choice.
